Sometimes I have horrible nightmares in which I log on to the GGF YouTube account and all our videos have been replaced by sub-par footage of actors reciting our scripts really badly.

9 September 2014

PROMPTS: WEEK 6

How time flies! We're at Week 6 already. We've been loving your work so far and we hope to see more of it soon.

1. Anne's "bringing-up". What does this translate to in the modern sense, especially as our Anne is much older than book Anne? Parallel to Chapter 8 (Anne's Bringing-up is Begun).
2. Fred and Diana.... and this interaction on Twitter.
3. Who ought not to be singing in the church choir? It couldn't possibly be our heroine, could it?
4. The Doctor arrives in his TARDIS. Could he be searching for a new red-headed companion with a feisty spirit? Does Anne like fish fingers and custard? Write about Anne and time travel, just for fun. Forwards, backwards, any time at all.
5. Do people even wear puffed sleeves anymore? Is that a thing? Tell us what you think. Parallel to Chapter 25 (Matthew Insists on Puffed Sleeves).

missposabule asked:

What is your process for find people to act on the show? (e.g. Matthew, Diana, etc.)

We've used several different methods so far! Our lead actress, Mandy Harmon, was fortunate enough to know perfect candidates for the roles of Matthew and Diana (Chris Jones and Ravyn Hohneke, respectively). For current casting decisions, we've been using a combination of talent agencies, casting call websites, and social media groups for actors. We've also accepted submissions directly to our email address, and continue to do so, although these are not as common.

PROMPTS: WEEK 7

1. Anne and her friendship with Mrs. Allan. How does it develop? Parallel to Chapter 22 (Anne Is Invited Out to Tea).
2. Fred and Diana. We're so excited about the prospects of this friendship... or should that be fredship? They're even in band together. Cute.
3. ART PROMPT! Design campaign posters for Gilbert (running for student council president), Anne (running for Grade 12 representative), and Ruby (running for events coordinator).
4. What if Anne suddenly found herself in an episode of Sherlock? There is no logical reason why this would potentially happen, but we think the possibilities are hilarious. You know the integrity of the crime scene would definitely be compromised.
5. THE boat incident. You know the one. Parallel to Chapter 28 (An Unfortunate Lily Maid). How does that take place in modern-day Avonlea?

A new transmedia element we introduced today- you can now email Matthew with any questions/anecdotes/conundrums you may have!

We will not be sharing the content of these emails publicly, to respect the privacy of any who choose to contact Matthew, but you are definitely free to do so!

Chris Jones (who plays Matthew Cuthbert) suggested this idea and will be writing in-character as Matthew. Go talk to him and have fun!

Anonymous asked:

I hope you guys don't mind a random question! I was just wondering why you decided to make it so that Diana lives farther away and doesn't go to the same school as Anne?

Not at all! We love answering questions.

Part of the reason Diana doesn't go to the same school as Anne was because of a previous casting decision, in which the actress playing Diana didn't live near Mandy (who plays Anne).

After that casting decision was changed, we decided to keep Diana living in Regina and Anne in Avonlea. In the books, most of Diana's life is seen through Anne's perspective, and the events of her life depend greatly on activities with Anne. This unfortunately made her rather underdeveloped in the original story, and she was never given much time to shine on the page.

By having Diana live in Regina, we're removing her from living under Anne's shadow, and (we hope) giving her more space to develop as a unique character. This is something we've been working on through transmedia and will definitely be exploring more should we make another season!

LITTLE UPDATE

You've probably noticed that we stopped posting weekly prompts, and we haven't posted canon summaries in a while.

We will, we promise. As full-time students we can only allot so much of our time to working on GGF, and it seems best to prioritize our time with creating the episodes and making them as high-quality as possible, so this side project often falls aside.

More to come soon!

The Crossover

Hello from the creators of Green Gables Fables and In Earnest!

This week, we launched an in-world transmedia and video crossover between our two shows, Green Gables Fables and In Earnest. About a month ago, In Earnest approached us with the original idea- from there we began discussing this project and the various mediums we could use to establish our shows within the same world. Our teams developed an Internet friendship between Anne and Cecily, given the two girls' closeness in age and similar personalities. The original plan was to create the crossover on transmedia only, but we were having so much fun and wanted all of our viewers to be fully engaged in the stories- so we extended it to video content as well!

This is an exciting and groundbreaking experiment for the literary web series genre, and as the stories continue to unfold you will see how the crossover affects both adaptations.

-Marie and Taryn for GGF&IE.

December

It's going to be a crazy month! Prepare for lots of Avonlea gossip, existential musings, unique clothing choices, and of course, Christmas. That's right.

For the month of December, there will be five in-world episodes of Green Gables Fables. Anne's usual vlog will still be released on Wednesday, as the official "episode" in the story. The four additional vlogs (from Gilbert, Jane, Josie, and Ruby) will offer new perspectives on the events at Avonlea High- and we'll get to see some interesting character shifts.

Here's the breakdown:

Gilbert will be posting a video every Monday, on this channel.

Jane will be posting a video every Tuesday, on this channel.

Anne will be posting a video every Wednesday (as per usual), on this channel.

Josie will be posting a video every Thursday, on this channel.

Ruby will be posting a video every Friday, on this channel.

Gilbert will begin the project this Monday, December 1st, and Anne will wrap up on Christmas Eve.

This month is our gift to you. Enjoy!

@GGFables so is everyone going to uploading their vlogs on Wednesday?

Green Gables Fables @GGFables · 28 Nov 2014

@jaysaysnope No, 5 days per week of videos!

love, jay
