Hello, Internet!

My name's Diana Barry. I live in Regina, Saskatchewan, and I'm mostly making this blog because my best friend Anne says I should be more active online. She has a video blog on YouTube which a lot of people watch, but I'm not really as comfortable in front of the camera. She loves talking, so the whole filming thing is fun for her. I've been on her vlog a few times- the first time we just hung out, the second time I got embarrassingly drunk. It was all a huge mistake, but as you can probably guess, that's put me off video blogging a little.

I think it's so weird how your life just becomes permanently published on the Internet. I don't know how I'm going to feel in 10 or 20 or 30 years about having pictures on tumblr or Tweets that my kids could read, much less video footage. I guess it'll be a really cool way of remembering what it was like to be a teenager, but it'll also be strange to see how I've changed.

I guess I should say a few things about myself, just to introduce myself to people?

I'm a pretty practical person, at least in comparison to Anne, who is so imaginative and creative! I like to be very organized and get my school work done on time, do chores around the house, babysit my sister May, listen to music...

Right, I should talk about my family.

It's just me, my sister May (she's 13), and my mom and dad. My mom was totally preppy in high school and college, she was in the debates club and the school band. She went to university and got her degree in music and was all set to take over the symphony world until she met my dad, who was finishing his engineering degree. They got married right after graduation (it was so cute and romantic and ahhhhhhh- I mean, from the pictures. Not like I was there, oops) and then had me and moved to Regina. Dad still works as a chemical engineer. He's really cheerful and funny, and pretty laidback. Mom decided to quit music so she could raise me and May. She's very strict about a lot of things because she wants me to do well in school and extra curriculars. But I think they balance out pretty well, my parents were practically made for each other! Mom is driven and highly organized (you should see our garage- all of the Christmas lights are stored by size, wattage, and colour), and Dad's hardworking but really patient and supportive.

I wouldn't say I'm the most creative person, I mean, I like writing and music and stuff. I just find some creative pursuits so exhausting. I could go paint watercolours or practice ballet for five hours, but I'd much rather relax with a book. I really like the arts and things, don't get me wrong! I just think of them as hobbies more than lifestyles.

I think I'm most creative when it comes to fashion. I try to keep it classy most of the time with my clothes, and I really like staying on top of trends. I don't spend a ton of time shopping, though, because I'm usually pretty busy. I like to look online and plan out my purchases in advance, so that I don't have to worry a lot about hunting through sales racks at H&M or Forever 21. I always have a game plan for what kind of clothes I'm going to buy- I really like finding pieces which are fashionable but still versatile, because then I can switch up my outfits conveniently!

So, my family, fashion, what else?

Right, music. I really love music. I don't really have one specific favourite genre, I listen to pretty much anything as long as I like it. I listen to a ton of Top 40, don't judge me, Annel! When I'm studying I like to listen to film soundtracks, they're very inspiring. Especially the superhero movie ones. My mom really encourages me to listen to classical music, which I find helpful especially when I'm working on a new piece. I play piano and flute, and most of the music for that is classical, so hearing the songs first helps me get a feel for their mood and dynamics.

I also really like reading books. Not long ones, because I get impatient with all the drawn out, unnecessary details. I like fantasy novels and romances, my favourite right now has got to be "I Capture the Castle". Not really a fantasy, I guess, more history. I read some Jane Austen books because her love stories are just perfect. And her men? Swoon. My mom isn't really a fan of "excessive reading", as she says, which is frustrating. Because doesn't every other parent in the history of FOREVER want their kid to read more books? I'm not the best daughter, oh well. She always tells me to go outside and stuff, and get fresh air. I respond to that by reading in the garden. Haha.

I also watch a TON of TV shows. Okay, I have to admit, this is sort of a problem. I'm addicted to Once Upon a Time. My cousin showed me the first episode ages ago and I was just completely hooked. (See what I did there? Haha I'm trying to be punny, I know Anne will make fun of this later) I really love Belle. I ship Gremma. Forever. Anyway, that's that. I also watch Downton Abbey, my mom and sister are obsessed with it. I love Matthew Crawley so much. I also started watching Reign, which I really like because it helps me make connections to a lot of the stuff I've read about in history class and other books. Oh, and my dad is a total Doctor Who geek. In a good way. So sometimes I watch that with him, but it's a bit too science-y for my preferences. I think that's about it.

I guess that's kind of a good start, for now? I wrote way more than I intended, oops. I don't really know what to write for the next one, so maybe if you like this blog just comment or tweet me suggestions? Maybe I'll talk about music more? Or is that too much? Anyway, hope you like it! (And Anne, you can get off my back now. I made a blog! Just kidding, love yah! <3)

Gardener's garters, Shepherd's purse,
Bachelor's buttons, Lady's smock,
And the Lady Hollyhock.

Fairy places, fairy things,
Fairy woods where the wild bee wings,
Tiny trees for tiny dames-- These must all be fairy names!

Tiny woods below whose boughs
Shady fairies weave a house;
Tiny tree-tops, rose or thyme,
Where the braver fairies climb!

Fair are grown-up people's trees,
But the fairest woods are these;
Where, if I were not so tall,

I should live for good and all. - Robert Louis

Here's my new blog post about music!

Music

Hi again!

I was originally going to talk about my favourite books (from a suggestion on Twitter) but then I thought for now I'd talk about music instead.

In light of recent events, anyway. My friend Anne (I'm going to assume most people reading this blog know who she is) and I attacked my aunt on Sunday night and now Aunt Jen's threatening to cancel my extra piano lessons, so I thought, "Why not?"

I started taking piano when I was four, I think, because my mom was really devoted to music and so was her sister Jennifer. They're both very musical, but the difference is Mom gave it up to take care of her family, and Aunt Jennifer still pursues it zealously. She was my first teacher but then she moved to Montreal to teach at McGill University. Yeah, she's that good.

I'm studying right now to take the Grade 10 Royal Conservatory of Music exam, and Aunt Jennifer originally arranged for me to take extra sessions with a professor friend of hers here in Regina. And then Anne and I jumped on her and she's furious with me for being immature and irresponsible and she says she's going to cancel them.

It's so frustrating because this is the last exam I'm going to do and I want to perform well. I can probably manage without the extra lessons but Aunt Jen's just being so unreasonable. She puts a ton of pressure on me to study music in post-secondary like she did, and now suddenly she's dropping that idea because I jumped on my own bed.

Secretly, I think she's a little bitter.

Anyway, music!

I really love it. I talked about it a little in my first blog post, I like listening to anything and everything, really, and I mostly play classical. At first I was just studying it because Mom and Aunt Jennifer wanted me to, but now I enjoy the freedom I have to perform.

I play piano and flute, but I prefer piano more because there's a lot of mathematics involved. Nerdy, I know. But I love that you have to learn the rules (all the fingerings, intervals, harmonies, etc.) before you can add the poetic elements, which are the best parts!

Hmmm, okay, this didn't last as long as I thought it would.

Music recommendations! Perfect. I use ThisIsMyJam a bit, but I'll put some of my favourite songs and artists here!

- The Gambler by fun: this song has beautiful, simple composition and makes me think about getting married. I know I'm only 17 BUT STILL it's adorable.
- 500 Miles by Justin Timberlake and Carey Mulligan: Anyone who thinks Justin Timberlake only makes pop music needs to listen to this song!!!! That's all I will say.
- Change by Churchill: I listen to this song whenever I'm cleaning my room. It's just very catching and energizing!
- Ed Sheeran: My personal favourite is Tenerife Sea from his new album, but I really like his voice and song writing style overall, because it's not too polished or auto-tuned.
- Coldplay: ALL of their songs, really. They have the amazing ability to transport the listener to magical worlds.
- Katy Perry: Everyone needs to listen to cheesy pop music some of the time, okay? I love Birthday and By The Grace of God.
- The Civil Wars: If I wanted to walk around exploring an enchanted forest for hours and be melancholy, they would be the soundtrack.

Here are some other artists I like to listen to:

- Kodaline
- The Lumineers
- Ingrid Michaelson
- Taylor Swift (sometimes.)
- Boys Like Girls
- Michael Bublé
- The 1975
- Passenger
- Landon Pigg
- The Arctic Monkeys

That's it for now!

Love,
Diana

P.S. I promise I will write a blog about book recommendations!

P.P.S I wish I could tell you about more interesting life events but nothing ever seems to happen to me.

P.P.S. Does anyone have a suggestion for a better blog title? I cringe every time I see mine.

annenotcordelia @anyafelix11 I dried them! I want to keep some in my room, they smell so lovely.

unumfelixculpa And when they're completely dried out you could collect some more things to make potpourri!

eldawenemileia Wow, this looks kinda like leather!

Piano and Poetry

Everything is back to normal! Okay, that's a huge overstatement.

My aunt Jennifer introduced me to her friend, Professor Wilson, on Wednesday. He seemed really shy and awkward at first, but when we got to the piano (a beautiful Steinway grand, I was freaking out!) he warmed up a lot. He's a very quiet, unassuming middle-aged man, he speaks softly and plays piano loudly. As my friend Anne would say, he's a kindred spirit.

It was an incredible first lesson and I can't wait for my next one. These are the pieces we chose for my exam:

1. English Suite no. 2 in A minor, Allemande and Gigue by J.S. Bach
2. Sonata in D Major, 3rd and 4th movements, by Ludwig Van Beethoven.
3. Ballade in D minor, op. 10, no. 1 by Johannes Brahms.
4. La plus que lente by Claude Debussy.
5. Sonatina in C Major, op. 13, no. 1, 2nd and 3rd movements by Dmitri Kabalevsky.

RCM stands for Royal Conservatory of Music, and their requirements for the grade 10 exam are complicated. You have to perform five pieces (one from each category), various studies (scales, chords, arpeggios, etc), and pass ear and sight reading tests. I'm not panicking.

I'm not panicking! Professor Wilson is one of the best teachers around (so Aunt Jennifer says, and I believe her). He's been teaching at the University of Regina for years now and his music class accepts only five students each year. Five. It's insane. I'm probably never going to study in his class, so I'm really taking advantage of the private lessons right now.

Now..... on the subject of how I almost lost the privilege of going to these amazing lessons, let's backtrack.

Sunday, June 29th. Poetry slam in downtown Regina with my best friend Anne.

We went to dinner with my parents (which wasn't too awkward, thankfully) and then we met my cousins downtown.

The bookstore we went to is called Athabasca Secondhand Books, it's very small but cozy. Old creaky hardwood flooring, comfortable armchairs and couches everywhere, old postcards and messages on the walls- basically paradise, or something like it.

There were probably about 30 or 40 people, there, it was packed. Like, people sharing seats packed. Anne and I got there early so we were able to get seats fairly close to the front.

I felt a bit shy around all of the university students, I'm pretty sure everyone attending was older than us. And, you know, probably more mature. Anne was bouncing off the walls (okay, I'm exaggerating) with excitement and we got a few odd stares when she started gushing about the tea selections.

The poems were really, really amazing. Some of them I recognized (from school and stuff, popular things like "The Road Not Taken" by Robert Frost or "Life is Fine" by Langston Hughes). The poetry slam was divided into three parts, first they had readings of existing works, second was original performances (those ones were sooo intense), and last was adaptations of existing works. I think my favourite part was the last section of performances, because the artists who performed took old classic poems and reinvented them for modern audiences.

Here were some of the selections from the evening! They didn't have programs but I wrote down my favourites so I could look them up later.

Here were some of the selections from the evening! They didn't have programs but I wrote down my favourites so I could look them up later.

I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud - William Wordsworth

To My Wife (With a Copy of My Poems) - Oscar Wilde

Still I Rise - Maya Angelou

The Broken Heart - William Barnes (This was one of the updated ones, it was really cool!)

Be Glad Your Nose is on Your Face - Jack Prelutsky (Anne could NOT stop laughing at this one. It was pretty funny).

Friends, Romans, Countrymen... - William Shakespeare (you know the one!)

Daddy - Sylvia Plath. (Another one of the poems that the performer decided to update, she read it with some of her own work and it was awesome!)

Bingen on the Rhine - Caroline E. Norton (another updated one!)

Having a Coke with You - Frank O'Hara.

Where the Sidewalk Ends - Shel Silverstein

A Carcass - Baudelaire

The Donkey - G.K. Chesterton (another updated poem! This one was so cute.)

I wish I could remember the names of the original works, but obviously I won't be able to find those online!

Until next time.
